

New works submission guidelines for Tales from the End of the Rainbow

The Table Co\Lab is seeking submissions from Queer playwrights for a new works festival, as well as directors. BIPOC writers and directors are especially encouraged to submit. We employ a blind submission process to avoid unintentional bias on the part of our team of qualified readers. Please do not include the writer's name(s) within the text of the sample script.

It is free to submit, and submissions are due December 1, 2022 by 11:59pm. The Table will present the finalist scripts in live readings on a festival weekend Jan. 20-22, 2023. Each of the selected scripts will be paired with DFW actors and directors for an 8-12 hour rehearsal process culminating in concert-style readings. Additionally, finalist playwrights are invited to engage with the director prior to this period of exploration with actors. A moderated Q & A with our audience, playwright, director and producers will follow each presentation.

Submission guidelines

1. Previously unproduced work.

All scripts submitted must be unproduced. Workshops or readings do not count as productions. However, any staging by a theatre (including non-Equity, regional, or community theatre) where actors are off-book and admission is charged does count as a production.

2. Maximum of SIX actors.

Doubling is permitted, provided a doubling plan is included with the cast list.

3. Submitting author is sole owner of script copyright. All playwrights submitting must be 18 years or older.

4. One submission per writer. If submitting a script with a writing partner(s), you may submit one additional script alone or with another team.

5. Please do not indicate name of playwright on any page - including title page.

6. Submitted as a single PDF.

PDFs should be one continuous file only. No hard copies will be accepted. PDF files are made with Adobe Acrobat Reader. For a free download and automatic installation of the newest version, go to <http://get.adobe.com/reader>.
